This course is about women in Canada and the western world today.

We will examine women's changing perceptions and social conditions from the 1950's to the present. We will also explore the current situation of women in Canada and the U.S. Topics to be introduced include :

- . women and the changing family structures,
- . very young women's attitudes to traditional roles,
- . old women,
- . reproductive rights,
- . violence against women, the economic situation,
- . educational streaming, women and the media,
- . sexuality, women's involvement in social movements,
- . feminism today.

There will be opportunity for the exchange of ideas and the discussion of issues important to women in the Montreal community and in the wider sphere.

Student participation is stressed.
